

With the current climate that seems to be eroding our civil rights and thus threatening our democracy, we need to count on open access to information through a variety of media outlets and journalists that are not owned or controlled by an increasingly small number of media conglomerates.